It has not been possible to arrange all of the state and county archives, collected during the biennium, in time for inclusion in this report.

DIVISION OF DOCUMENTS

I. Classification and Arrangement.

The accessions listed in this report have been classified, arranged, and filed during the biennium. They comprise approximately 135 volumes and 26,000 letters and papers of persons and organizations; 11 volumes and 2,500 documents of county archives; 6 volumes and 19,000 letters and papers in the nature of state archives; 1,506 issues of newspapers; 153 pamphlets; 26 maps; and miscellaneous items.

II. Cataloging.

Current accessions have been cataloged as well as 533 collections of personal papers and 596 volumes and boxes of executive records, with special catalogue classifications for photographs, newspapers, maps, pamphlets and broadsides found in the collections. An abstract-index has been made of a large volume, "A List of Warrants issued to the Officers and Soldiers in the Continental Line raised in and belonging to the State of North Carolina," containing 6,554 entries. This volume was recently discovered in the Land Grant Office. The alphabetical abstract-index will be bound in volumes for ready use. Alphabetical abstract-indexes have been made, checked, and re-checked of the collection of 8,000 Rowan County marriage bonds, of the small collection from Duplin County, and, in part, of the large Orange County collection. In this work some use was made of relief labor under the CWA.

III. Repair.

The Restorer of Manuscripts has mounted 10,180 sheets of manuscript for binding. In case of some manuscripts, more than one repair process was necessary. Of the manuscripts mounted, 6,980 were repaired with paper, 1,202 were covered with crepeline, 955 were backed with paper, and 146 were covered with tissue. Sixty-six volumes were bound in buckram loose-leaf bindings, designed by the Restorer of Manuscripts.

IV. BINDING.

Eighty-six volumes were bound during the period of this report:

V. USE OF RECORDS.

During the biennium, visits to the offices of the Commission for the purpose of consulting the manuscript records of North Carolina history totaled 2,666. Of these, nearly 600 were made by persons living in Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington, and in the District of Columbia and Canada; and more than 400 by graduate students, historians, and others in serious research for articles and monographs on North Carolina, Southern and United States history. Professors and graduate students from the University of North Carolina, Duke University, State College, Wake Forest College, Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, Meredith College, Salem College, East Carolina Teachers College, University of Chicago, Goucher College, Vassar, Tennessee College, Columbia University, Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Temple University, University of Virginia, University of Kentucky, University of California, University of Illinois, Peabody College, and Vanderbilt University conducted research in the North Carolina records for data on the German element in North Carolina, the textile industry, early banking, women of the Confederacy, disaffection during the Civil War, the history of the University since 1860, eighteenth century education in North Carolina, the social history of North Carolina, eighteenth century commerce, the negro in the Confederacy, steam navigation in North Carolina, the education of women, Granville County, Bladen County, the Transylvania Company, the relation of church and state in education, North Carolina Loyalists in the American Revolution, prerevolutionary conditions in North Carolina, western land speculation in the Revolutionary period, the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, Wake Forest College, amendments to the state constitution, W. W. Holden, Z. B. Vance, Jefferson Davis, D. S. Reid, William Davidson, John Wright Stanly, John Gray and Thomas and William Blount, and other subjects.

The business of the Commission has required the writing of approximately 8,000 letters during the biennium. Research necessary for the replies has been done by members of the staff, in case of historical inquiries, and by private researchers to whom the inquiries were referred, if of a personal or genealogical nature. A total of 579 certified copies from the records of the Commission, necessary for pension claims and for admission to patriotic societies, have been prepared and furnished without charge to North Carolinians and others. Of these, 200 were supplied to North Carolinians, and 379 to persons outside the State, as follows: Georgia, 52; District of Columbia, 51; Texas, 43; Florida, 28; Pennsylvania, 22; South Carolina, 22; New Jersey, 21; Virginia, 20; Missouri, 17; Tennessee, 15; Alabama, 14; Arkansas, 10; Illinois, 10; Mississippi, 8; Indiana, 8; Kansas, 5; Louisiana, 5; New York, 5; Maryland, 4; Iowa, 3; Oklahoma, 2; Ohio, 2; Michigan, 2; Arizona, 2; Washington, 1; California, 1; Kentucky, 1; Massachusetts, 1; Canada, 1. Research has been done by the staff to establish the eligibility of many Civil War and Revolutionary soldiers for gravestones which are supplied by the U. S. War Department.

Despite the prevailing economic distress, investigators in North Carolina and other states have continued to avail themselves of the public archives and historical manuscripts which the Commission has assembled in vast quantities in its effort to make North Carolina history an attractive field for original investigation.

PUBLICATIONS

The drastic reduction of appropriations has been felt most keenly by the Historical Commission in its publication program. Only its routine reports and magazine in reduced size have survived. The continuation of its series of documentary volumes, universally recognized as one of its most important achievements and activities, has been entirely suspended. The biennium covered by this report is the first one since the establishment of the Commission in 1903 in which there has been no activity in the field of documentary publication. The following publications have been issued:

1. Bulletin No. 36. Fourteenth Biennial Report of the North Carolina Historical Commission, July 1, 1930-June 30, 1932. (Raleigh: 1932. pp. 26.)
2. The North Carolina Historical Review. Volumes IX, nos. 3-4; X; XI, nos. 1-2. (Raleigh: 1932-34. Pp. 196; 360; 166.) The eight issues of this quarterly magazine devoted to North Carolina history have contained 19 articles and 10 sections of documents, besides book reviews and historical news.
3. North Carolina Manual, 1933. Compiled and edited by H. M. London. (Raleigh: 1933. pp. 205.)
4. Directory of the State and County Officials of North Carolina and Members of the General Assembly. Compiled by H. M. London. (Raleigh: 1933. pp. 81.)

HISTORICAL MARKERS

With no appropriation for the purpose, the Historical Commission has been unable to render any financial aid to individuals or organizations in the erection of historical markers. Fortunately, private organizations and societies, particularly the women's patriotic societies, have carried on the work of marking historic spots; and the Historical Commission has encouraged them, helped in the framing of inscriptions, and coöperated in several exercises of dedication.

STIMULATION OF HISTORICAL INTEREST AND INVESTIGATION

To the Historical Commission rightly belongs large credit for the ever-increasing original research and publication in North Carolina history in recent years. Its widely-available documentary volumes, its large and accessible collection of public archives and historical manuscripts, its trained staff, and its quarterly magazine constantly stimulate and assist research. Cordial relations and coöperation with the patriotic, educational and historical organizations have been preserved and extended. The Secretary of the Commission has delivered numerous addresses before organizations in the State and over station WPTF as part of the North Carolina Radio School conducted by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and in 1934 he was a member of the advisory committee of the Historic American Buildings Survey for North Carolina, which with federal relief funds completed surveys consisting of measured drawings and photographs of twenty-two historic buildings in the State. The records of the survey are filed in Washington. Encouragement and assistance have been given to public speakers, writers and county historians. Public school teachers and students have been aided by the distribution of bulletins, volumes, and information and by lectures in the Hall of History and in the schools.

The Secretary of the Commission was reappointed Chairman of the Public Archives Commission of the American Historical Association in 1932 and 1933, and in 1934 was appointed by the Joint Committee on materials for Research of the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council to the seven-member Commission on National Archives Survey to have supervision of the organization and execution of a national survey of local archives under the Department of the Interior. The national project did not materialize, but the Commission was able to stimulate surveys in several states. In December, 1933, the Secretary read a paper on the present availability of state and local archives in the United States before sessions of the American Historical Association at Urbana and the Association of American Law Schools at Chicago.

HALL OF HISTORY

Col. Fred A. Olds, who has been in the employ of the Historical Commission as Collector for the Hall of History since February 18, 1914, and who for many years prior to 1914 had been collecting historical relics, was compelled by increasing age and declining health to begin hospital treatment on April 16. He has not been able to return to his duties and to prepare his report of activities.

During the biennium he has continued with his customary enthusiasm and faithulness and with the strength at his command to conduct thousands of public school children and teachers, citizens and tourists through the Hall of History and other places of interest in Raleigh, and to receive additions to the invaluable collection of museum objects which it has been his chief work in life to assemble.

His record book lists the following accessions during the biennium:

Invitation to opening of the state capitol, 1840, and directory of the 1832 legislature, presented by L. E. McCall, Laurinburg; two silver spoons of Regina de Graffenreid and Thomas G. RECOMMENDATIONS

I. ADDITIONAL SPACE FOR FILING RECORDS.

The collecting activity of the Historical Commission is seriously restricted, particularly in reference to state and county archives, by the lack of filing space. The archives room is crowded and even storage room is at a premium. The transfer of great quantities of state and county archives awaits only the provision of filing space. The situation is so serious as to threaten paralysis in the basic activity of collection. The need is critical and urgent.

II. A PUBLIC RECORDS LAW.

The concensus of expert opinion and the experience of those states most successful in the care of public archives and the dissemination of a knowledge of their history indicate that the enactment of state public records laws is the proper approach to the solution of the problem of public archives. In view of the lack of such a law in North Carolina and the deplorable losses and present condition of the public archives of the state and its subdivisions, the Historical Commission recommends the enactment of a public records law incorporating all or as many as possible of the following provisions: a clear definition of public archives; definite location of legal custody and responsibility; use of durable ink and paper; definition of the duty of custodians relative to fireproof filing, arrangement of the records for use, and care of worn or mutilated records; requirement that legal custodians supply certified copies; requirement that retiring officers deliver all public records to their successors; requirement of recovery of public records from private possession; prohibition of destruction and abuse of public records; assignment of the duty of general supervision and recommendation to the Historical Commission.

III. Resumption of the Publication of Documentary Volumes.

The best means of preserving and making widely available the original sources of North Carolina history and of stimulating historical interest, research and writing is the publication of volumes of documents. The notable series of the Commission's Publications has been entirely suspended during the biennium. It should be resumed.

Respectfully submitted,

A. R. Newsome,
Secretary.
